A BOY WIZARD GROWS UP

by Jehan Casinader

1 He has cast a spell over movielovers for the last nine years. Since we first saw the famous boy wizard, the Harry Potter films have earned nearly $4.5 billion in cinemas around the world. Hollywood is bewitched and named Daniel Radcliffe the most powerful young actor in the world. Now, fans can see him again in Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince, the sixth film from J.K. Rowling's best-selling book series. And we can't wait to see what Daniel, who turned 20 in July 2009, will do next.

2 With Emma Watson as Hermione and Rupert Grint as Ron, we first saw Daniel in the magical world of Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry in Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone back in 2001. We spoke to Daniel to find out what it's been like to grow up in the spotlight.

3 What is it like to be a child actor?

In America, if you're a child actor, you're treated as an actor first and a child second. In England, you're treated as a child first and an actor second – which is the right way to do it.

4 Have you grown up too quickly?

I don't think I've grown up too fast, but I have grown up faster than others. Suddenly, I feel like I have to be an adult.

5 Why are people so interested in you?

Really, I have no idea at all. I think it's because I'm in the middle of this incredible Harry Potter world.

6 Do you worry that too many young people look up to you?

I don't want people to think of me (Daniel Radcliffe) as a role model. But I think Harry Potter is a good role model.

7 Do you keep your personal life separate from your public life?

The most interesting parts about me are things I don't want to talk about in public. I told somebody that I wrote poems. A few months later, people were asking, "When can we see some?" No, not ever!

8 Will you ever get tired of acting?

I'm still madly enthusiastic about what I do. I get a big kick out of being on the set and filming. So, as long as I don't lose that feeling, I think I'll be all right.
